

Tom Watson | Kimberley
www.tommygunwatson.com
Unlocked Potential
Selling Price $6,500

Unlocked Potential - Key to the passageway- deep as the ocean. All that is unseen in our own potential, unlock inner strength and contentment. Made of stainless steel, glass and solar lighting.

Born and raised in Kimberley, Métis artist Tom began welding in 2002. He enjoys exploring the boundaries of metal and how to manipulate it. Favourite materials are: stainless steel, titanium, and copper - from iridescent seams to incorporating earthy elements like crystals and glass, he always pushes the possibilities.

Daniel Cline | Chemainus
www.danielclinesculpture.com
Breaching Orca
Selling Price $15,000

Orcas are a favorite subject for me, I have carved at least a hundred Orcas of different scale. Orcas are magnificent and beautiful, live in family groups that are matriarchal, hunt like wolves and perform ridiculous aerial feats seemingly for the fun of it! I never get tired of carving them. I feel blessed to live where they swim in the oceans.

A multi-talented sculptor. His sculptures are highly sought after by patrons who appreciate the quality, originality, and diversity of this work

Denis Kleine | Nelson
www.deniskleine.ca
Grateful Harvest
Selling Price $15,000

Mother Earth is depicted showing what the water has to offer for harvest. It is a salmon which is an important staple to the indigenous people and mankind. She is standing on the earth and is hoping mankind respects the delicate balance of nature!

Denis works predominantly in stone and bronze. BFA graduate of David Thompson University Centre and an instructor at Kootenay Studio of the Arts at Selkirk College in Nelson. The "Passenger" at the White Rock Museum was commissioned by the City of White Rock

A Heartfelt Thank You To Our Sponsors!

MEDIA SPONSOR:

PLATINUM SPONSORS:

NAUTILUS
1500 OXFORD

HOMELIFE BENCHMARK
REALTY CORP.

TITANIUM SPONSORS:

SUPPORTING THE ARTS:

SPECIAL RECOGNITION:

PROUDLY PRESENTS:

White Rock P'Quals Promenade Sculptures COMPETITION

The White Rock Events Society encourages everyone to visit and enjoy the sculptures along the White Rock beachfront.

September 2023
to August 2024

www.whiterockeventsociety.com

"We acknowledge we are on the traditional, unceded territories of the Semiahmoo First Nation and the broader territory of the Coast Salish Peoples"

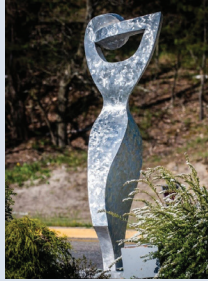

Serge Mozhnevsky | Coquitlam
www.sergesculpture.com

#1

In Love With The Breeze
Selling Price $15,000

Born in Russia, raised in Ukraine. Immigrated to Canada in 2000 where he continues to follow his passion for art. In 2009 he stepped into the fascinating world of public art.

"Sculpture is a language born in the space between the words. The more we talk the less we hear it."

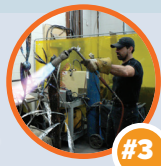

Don Francis | Delta
www.donfrancisgallery.com

#2

Iron Flame
Selling Price $15,000

A light sitting by the window in a small house by the sea shore to guide the fisherman coming home late evening, indicating that his love ones are anxiously waiting for him before the storm rolls in.

Self-taught artist, metal sculptor. Sunset Sail was designed and imagined as a sailing vessel at sun set and dropping anchor in a secret cove for the night.

Angellos Glaros | Nanaimo
www.westcoastarts.com Glaros Studios

#3

Inside Passage
Selling Price $26,000

Inside Passage is a glimpse into the world beneath the ocean's surface; it shows both the beauty, and hazards of the ocean. There is a lone flying fish near the top which is a nod to global warming. Out of the rocky base, emerge gently flowing kelp. Jellyfish are being carried along with the ocean's currents and through the kelp fronds while fish swim amongst them.

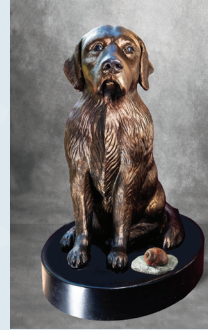

Laurel Dinney | Victoria
www.laureldmyart.ca

#4

MURPHY - When My Ship Comes In
Selling Price $12,500

Sitting on the pier, MURPHY waits for his ship to come in. It is carrying his most precious treasure that fills all of the space in his heart. His beloved master is soon returning for a glorious seaside reunion of best friends.

After a long career in luxury cosmetics, Laurel retired in Victoria and discovered sculpting. Her sculpture "Murphy Brave & Hospitable" won a "People's Choice Award" in Penticton and exhibited in Castlegar Sculpturewalk

Ron Simmer | Burnaby
www.ronsimmer.com Making Art Fun Again

#6

The Frog of Destiny
Selling Price $950

Ron recycles materials from our consumer culture to create fanciful commentary on modern society. Relating to the theme of water, this steampunk frog is created from recycled brass, copper, and stainless steel. Amphibians such as frogs are an indicator species that serve as a measure of the environmental conditions that exist in a given locale.

Goetz Schuerholz | Duncan
www.goetzschuerholzartist.com

#5

Methuselah By The Sea
Selling Price $19,500

The ancient ammonite fossils, named after the Egyptian god Amun, are mysterious objects, fascinating and inspiring artists for centuries. Their spiraled shell kept until today by Nautilus, their living relative, just asks to be sculpted in stone

Goetz is a retired conservation ecologist who travelled all over the world. He now spends most of his time sculpting and painting at his studios in Heidelberg, Germany, and Cowichan Bay.

Peter Vogelaar | Winlaw
www.sculptorpete.com

#7

Neptune's Cry
Selling Price $16,500

Neptune, the God of the Sea is sorely distressed with the incredible amounts of plastic and garbage ending up in our oceans. He pleads with us to start doing something to stem this awful tide.

Peter graduated with a diploma in sculpture and printmaking later developing an interest in sand and snow sculpting, winning the Canadian Championships a number of times which led to representing Canada at the Nagano Olympics in 1998 and the Torino Olympics in 2006, where his team won First Prize and People's Choice

Presenting Sponsor

SCULPTURE MAP
SCAN THIS QR CODE TO VOTE for your favourite sculpture and ENTER TO WIN a prize from one of our special recognition sponsors!